

He can jump

she went to the card shop.

Handwriting practice for the sentence "He can jump." on lined paper. The sentence is written four times in red ink, showing increasing fluency from top to bottom. The first line shows the sentence with large, somewhat shaky letters. The second line shows the sentence with slightly more defined letters. The third line shows the sentence with more consistent lettering. The fourth line shows the sentence with very clear, well-formed letters. A small black mark is visible in the bottom left corner of the paper.

This week's blog display board work 😊

-Subtraction games

-Frozen music

-Tricky word writing

-Northern Lights pictures

Good morning. Thomas and William have done their first writing, then been outside to complete Wednesday's task of making shapes. They also did star jumps, though these were not as tiring as the grandma's glasses video.

Some of our blog interaction and work this week!
